Shambare Selected as College Educator of the Year

OMAHA, Neb. – Recently, the AIM Institute congratulated Narcissus Shambare from College of Saint Mary (CSM) for being selected as the College Educator of the Year for AIM Institute’s 2013 Technology Celebration Awards. The College Educator of the Year Award is presented annually to one college educator who has risen to the top of their profession as a technology leader.

Shambare, Assistant Professor of Business and Information Systems, teaches courses in programming, information systems security, computer networks, fundamentals of information systems, computer concepts, business applications, database systems, electronic management, leadership through decision analysis, and business policy at CSM. He holds a Master of Business Administration from Nottingham Trent University, A Master of Science in Information Systems from Central Michigan University, and a Master of Science from Edinburgh Business School. He is a professional accountant and SAP certified. Shambare joined CSM in 2002.

College of Saint Mary, founded in Omaha in 1923, is the region’s only Catholic college for women. With approximately 1,000 students, CSM is dedicated to the education of women in an environment that calls forth potential and fosters leadership. For more information on CSM, visit CSM.edu.
